This map illustrates the National Highway System (NHS) in the Charlotte, North Carolina to South Carolina region. The map features a network of roads color-coded by their status: blue for the Eisenhower Interstate System, red for other NHS routes, green for Non-Interstate STRAHNET routes, and light green for Major STRAHNET Connectors. Brown lines represent intermodal connectors, and dashed red lines indicate unbuilt NHS routes. Grey lines show other roads not on the NHS, and black lines with cross-ticks represent railroads. The map also displays various land use areas: yellow for Census Urbanized Areas, purple for Indian Reservations, olive green for Department of Defense land, light green for National Forests, dark green for National Park Service land, and light blue for water bodies. Key transportation facilities are marked with icons: airports (blue airplane), intercity bus terminals (blue bus), ferry terminals (blue boat), truck/pipeline terminals (purple truck), multipurpose passenger facilities (purple building), port terminals (black anchor), truck/rail facilities (blue truck), AMTRAK stations (blue train), and public transit stations (blue train). The map shows major highways such as I-77, I-85, I-485, US-321, and US-52. It also identifies major cities and towns, including Charlotte, Gastonia, Mount Holly, Belmont, Concord, Kannapolis, Mint Hill, Matthews, and Monroe. The map includes a scale bar in miles and kilometers, a north arrow, and a legend for the various symbols and colors used.
